OLD GLORY'S STAR COSTS MUCH MONEY

The addition of another star to the flag, made necessary by the admission of Oklahoma, seems like a very simpi matter, and for the miscellaneous use of the emblem it may prove so; but for national and official purposes it has risen to the dignity of a problem, necessitating an entirely new arrangement for the satisfactory accommodation of

for the satisfactory accommodation of the forty-sixth brilliant.

Custom has made the Navy Department official designer of the flag. On the blue field there will now be six rows of stars, four containing eight and two seven. This leaves room for just two more stars, after which, should demand arise, some new order must again be devised.

This revision, which will go into ef-demand arise, some new order must again be devised.

This revision, which will go into effect on July 4 of the present year, will cause a substitution of new flags for old ones wherever "Old Glory" officially floats, and this will involve an expense of many theirsands of deliars. The army will require about 3,500 flags to equip the various military posts and recruiting stations at home and abroad. The work of refitting will largely be done at the Philadelphia military depot. The 450 Federal buildings throughout the United States must have each a new flag for July 4. This responsibility falls on the Treasury Department, and the work is done by the Revenue Cutter Service.

Our coming Independence Day will thus have a more than usual interest for us and for the work, says the Boston Transcript. It will draw special attention to the flag at home, and its new folds, as they float over embassies and consulates abroad, will symbolize to the other powers of the earth the enlargement of ear particula family.

the other powers of the earth the en-largement of our national family.
